

JUNE 2015

AT WORK SPECIAL EDITION

ALL ABOARD!

By striking the ships bell twice Frank Verhoeven, member Board Management, launched the NINA programme within Dockwise and Fairmount.

With a picture of his family he showed what NINA is all about: "When your child is too young to go to hockey alone, you bring him, until he is old enough to go by himself. Caring for each other is the essence of NINA. Take care of your own safety and of your colleagues. But NINA is more than that: it brings people together. This is valuable in the process of integration. We ask you all to take action. We will facilitate this with different NINA training sessions, at the office, on the vessels and projects. An intensive programme, with one final objective: 'No Injuries No Accidents'."

TON SCHOUTEN, FLEET MANAGER FAIRMOUNT

My commitment to NINA: 'NINA is accessible. It is a firm tool for everyone's safety, both at work as in your private life.'

"Our management session was very inspirational, interesting and surprising. It was inspirational to find NINA is a broadly supported platform where you meet colleagues with a similar interest and goal: working safely. It was interesting to learn how others experience NINA. And I surprised myself: nowadays I am indeed more conscious about my own safety and the safety of others."

KATHRYN LEWTON-JONES, BUSINESS UNIT MANAGER LOGISTICAL MANAGEMENT

My commitment to NINA: 'Every job can be done safely.'

"The NINA management session far exceeded my expectations, with a dynamic discussion, looking at ourselves, questioning each other. NINA is a simple yet effective tool which makes you consider your safety and the safety of others at all times. By defining a common goal, NINA is a great vehicle to reach common ground and give us a sense of belonging."

NINA SR. MANAGEMENT SESSION IN RENESSE

EUGÈNE VAN DODEWEERD, DIRECTOR FLEET MANAGEMENT OFFSHORE

My commitment to NINA: 'I will actively stimulate people to work safe and contribute to a working environment were safe return home for all is ultimately the biggest priority.'

"It often surprises me that people willingly take certain risks. Breaking down these patterns is the ultimate benefit of safety behaviour. And the most difficult one, as we all look differently at risks. NINA stimulates us to exchange our views in an open culture. This way we reach a safer working environment, and togetherness."

Upper row: Jaap Meij, Wim Vogelaar, Ron Molenaar, Piet Jan van der Giessen, Frank Verhoeven, Rob van Drimmelen. Second row: Hans Bezuijen, Evert Boerhof, Carmen Dewilde, Aalok Sharma, Herman van Raaphorst, Rick Ackermann, Chris Heupers, Bram Sluiskes, Eugène van Dodeweerd, Konstantinos Neanidis, Kathryn Lewton-Jones, Pradeep Shawla, Shashi Khanna. In front: John van der Woning, Angela Eijsbouts, Anand Sharma. Missing: Sander Bickers en Ton Schouten